Ready for Jamestown Day.

Navy and army officers, and Jamestown Exposition officials, who have in charge the arrangements for the celebration of Jamestown Day, next Monday, at the exposition, are working together to make it one of the most unique and notable ever held in America. Foreign officers are also entering heartily into the prepa rations for the day. Ashore, sailors and soldiers will march to martial music, and the boat races, par-ticipated in by crews of oarsmen repre-senting all nations with ships present, will occur in the roadstead as the bands play and gayly decorated ships thunder their salutes. It is now announced that there will be no less than one hundred illuminated floats in the water carnival at night. All the war ships will also be

The Americans do not believe that there is any special advantage in jiu-jitsu as a means of overcoming an adversary. The Japs say that any other art or strength in competition with it is hopelessly outclassed. The jackies of both navies have taken kindly to the proposition, and have worked themselves into a high state of excitement over it. The best man from each navy will be selected for the contest.

election on last Tuesday through the operation of the present election law, which is one that was passed by the general assembly of Maryland at the special session of 1901. The supervisors of elec-tion completed their canvass yesterday of the vote cast on last Tuesday and they found that exactly 4,780 votes had been brown out by the various judges as de fective under the provisions of the elec-tion law. The 4.780 voters who thus lost their votes were disfranchised just as thoroughly as if they had not been al-lowed to go to the polls.

The supervisors of elections also found that this throwing out of votes on account of defects was not confined to any one ward. It averaged about 200 defective votes to a ward.

I thank you so much for the editorial article in The Washington Herald of yesterday. It was like a well known voice from a friendly country and found echo in the hearts of those who love home and history—those who realize what the great exposition stands for. Let the pilgrims of the James (1907) look backward, from a comparative point of diview, to the pilgrims of 1967, and rejoice in the progress and prosperity of our home and country. Even if detail of firish be not complete, the exposition is a magnificent memorial to progress, and will be an enduring honor to all interested in its success. It is a point of interest that every American who possibly can make the pilgrimage should do so, and make Jamestown a Mecca of patriotism. I can say to our peonle with patriotic pride, "Come," and find "Welk ne"—and if everything is not just what you expect and desire, remember it is much better than could have been imagined by the pioneers of wilderness period, where the craftle of the nation was rocked to the war cry of danger only 309 years ago.
